A GOOD COLLEGE in a GOOD CITY

Jackson offers many Opportunities to the Student

Among Millsaps' many advantages is the fact that it is located in Jackson, Mississippi's largest city and capital of the state.

The intellectual and personal development of the student may be greatly influenced by the community in which he lives. Jackson, a city of both opportunity and culture, offers many advantages to students residing within the city.

Many special events, such as athletic contests, lectures, plays, concerts and other musical performances, go far toward broadening and enriching the student's life in Jackson.

Here, also, he can visit and take part in the services of Jackson's outstanding churches. Friendships can be built that will last through the years.

Of practical importance to many students is the fact that Jackson offers unrivalled opportunities to those who seek part-time employment.

A good college, plus a good city, makes a perfect combination for students at Millsaps to grow scholastically, socially and culturally.

COSTS are REASONABLE

In conformity with its charter, Millsaps has always maintained a policy of keeping costs of education as low as is consistent with effective work and with income from church contributions and endowment.

Students living in college dormitories and eating at the college cafeteria can attend Millsaps for one year for $566.00 (exclusive of laboratory fees and books).

Students living at home in Jackson can attend Millsaps for one year for $260.00 (exclusive of laboratory fees and books).

Annual HIGH SCHOOL DAY

Each spring, the first Saturday in April, Millsaps College is host to the high school seniors of the state at its annual High School Day. The program includes a tour of the campus, a barbecue dinner, entertainment and competitive tests for a number of scholarship awards.

These High School Day Scholarship Awards include:

- One $500.00 award—$125.00 a year for 4 years
- One $250.00 award—$125.00 a year for 2 years
- One $125.00 award—$125.00 for one year
- Ten $ 75.00 awards—$75.00 for one year

PLANNING YOUR COLLEGE FUTURE

Here is the story of Millsaps College. It gives you some idea of what you can expect at Millsaps.

To those of you who are planning to continue your education, we urge you to find out more about Millsaps College.

The years you spend on a college campus can be among the most rewarding and significant in your whole life. They can shape and pattern your future as almost no other period of time can.

For this reason, the proper selection of your college becomes doubly important.

We believe that Millsaps College offers much to its undergraduates. We would like to share these advantages and opportunities with you.

By letting us know you better, we can perhaps help in the planning of your college future.

Sincerely,

M. L. Smith

BURTON AND GALLOWAY HALLS, DORMITORIES FOR BOYS

the story of Millsaps

Founded just over fifty-five years ago, Millsaps is one of the youngest colleges supported by the Methodist Church. It was in the late eighties that the Mississippi Methodist Conferences appointed a joint commission to formulate plans for a "college for males under the auspices and control of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South."

Among the members of this commission was Major R. W. Millsaps, Jackson businessman and banker, who offered to give $50,000 to endow the institution, provided Methodists throughout the state matched this amount.

Under the leadership of Bishop Charles B. Galloway, the Methodists met the challenge of Major Millsaps. The Charter for the college was granted February 21, 1890, and the college opened its doors in the fall of 1892.

First president of the college was William Belton Murrah. Along with Bishop Galloway and Major Millsaps, Murrah is commonly thought of as one of the founders of the college.

Throughout its more than fifty-five years Millsaps has progressed steadily in educational facilities and maintained a high standing as an institution of learning in Mississippi and the South.

what Millsaps offers today

Now in its fifty-eighth year, Millsaps has always ranked high among liberal arts colleges in this part of the South.

Today enrollment at Millsaps is over 800. Facilities are being constantly expanded in an effort to offer greater and more useful educational opportunities to its students.

Because of a deep-rooted tradition of scholarship at Millsaps, graduates of the college are equipped with specialized and technical training built upon a sound cultural foundation.

In addition to granting bachelor of science and bachelor of arts degrees in many specialized fields, Millsaps offers the highest calibre pre-professional training in law, medicine, and religion.

Beginning with the 1948-1949 session, a far-reaching cooperative program was inaugurated between Millsaps College and Belhaven College. Exchange of students between the two colleges provides a wider range of departmental and course offerings for both student bodies.

There is also a sharing of the physical and other facilities of the two schools.

A Personal Interest in Each Student

Millsaps is noted for its friendly and congenial campus life. Here students not only get to know each other well but they also become more than ordinarily close to their professors.

As a student at Millsaps you will not become lost in the crowd. You soon come to feel that you are a real part of a warm and friendly college family. The president, faculty and student body will do everything they can to make you feel at home at Millsaps. A personal interest is taken in every student.

This sort of friendship and cordiality enriches the lives of all students and promotes wholesome personality and character growth.

You will quickly make new friends among the students and faculty and they will eagerly share your joys and responsibilities here at Millsaps where your achievement and efforts will be recognized.

Scholarship Counts at Millsaps College

During all the years of its existence, Millsaps College has stressed the importance of sound scholarship.

In establishing Millsaps, William Belton Murrah, the first president, secured the best trained men available, formulated a course of study in what were the fundamentals of a liberal education, and instituted a regimen of intellectual activity that was challenging to faculty and students alike.

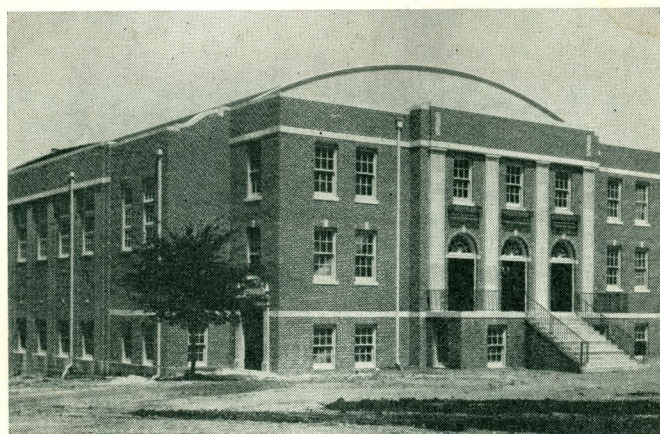

This emphasis upon scholarship has been maintained through the years.

Back in the mid-twenties when intelligence tests were first given to freshman students, the president made this forthright announcement to the student body: "We are trying to make our requirements such that no boy with mediocre ability combined with mediocre industry, can ever wear the Millsaps degree."

As a result of its scholarship standards, Millsaps has always enjoyed the highest of ratings among American colleges and universities. Its standing has never been questioned.

Many campus activities give every student an opportunity for diversion and expression. At Millsaps you get a wide range of activities outside the classroom.

CLUBS. There are many organizations which foster the further extension of students' interests in pre-professional and other fields. Among these are the Pre-Medical Club, the Pre-Law Club, the Economics Club, the Education Club, the Science Club, the Classical Club, the International Relations Club, and Eta Sigma, Scholastic Honor Society.

WRITING. Millsaps students interested in writing receive valuable training by working on the staff of the "Purple and White", the college weekly newspaper, and by enrolling in the journalism course which is designed to instruct students in all types of newspaper writing.

DRAMATICS. The "Millsaps Players" is one of the most active groups on the campus. Under the leadership of members of the faculty, they present each session a number of interesting plays and programs.

DEBATING. Since the organization of the college, debating has held a high place at Millsaps. The college has established a remarkable record in single competition with leading southern colleges both in debate and oratory. Many students seek membership in Pi Kappa Delta, National Honor Debate Fraternity.

MILLSAPS SINGERS. The name and traditions of Millsaps have been spread throughout this section and into other states through concert tours of the Millsaps Singers. Membership in this organization is considered one of the greatest honors and privileges which can come to a student.

MILLSAPS SYMPHONY BAND. Members of this fine organization present concerts on the campus and on tour, participate in local parades and play for colorful athletic contests.

OTHER ACTIVITIES offered to students include the Beethoven Club, the Bobashela (Campus Yearbook), the Jackson Symphony Orchestra and the Jackson Little Theatre.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Founded by the Methodist Church, Millsaps College has always emphasized the importance of religious education. Students are urged to attend church and Sunday School of their own denomination. Regular chapel services are held for worship and information.

The various religious activities and organizations of the college are all represented on the Millsaps Christian Council.

The College Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. try to strengthen the spiritual life and influence of the college and their members. They provide a wholesome expression for the religious interests of both men and women students.

The Ministerial League is composed of those students who are preparing for the Christian Ministry. Its members take part in various religious activities both on the campus and in local churches.

One of the most important new buildings on the campus is the Memorial Christian Center Building.

Believing that a well planned sports program promotes health and sportsmanship, Millsaps has determined to bring such advantages to the entire student body. A balanced schedule of intramural sports is carried out on the campus, and an opportunity for intercollegiate competition is afforded through several sports. Trained faculty members direct sports activities for both young men and young women.

Millsaps now offers a complete and adequate physical education program which occupies an important position in the curriculum and takes its rightful place in the field of scholastic endeavor.

FOOTBALL. Millsaps College football teams have built a fine record for teamwork and sportsmanship. Both home and out-of-town games are scheduled each season.

BASKETBALL. Basketball teams at Millsaps have been consistently outstanding, both in tournament play and in regularly scheduled games.

BASEBALL. Those interested in baseball have an opportunity of earning a place on the college team.

TENNIS. Millsaps now has five fine tennis courts for use of the students and members of the tennis team.

GOLF. The nine hole golf course located on the campus offers pleasant recreation for those students who are interested in such sports activities.

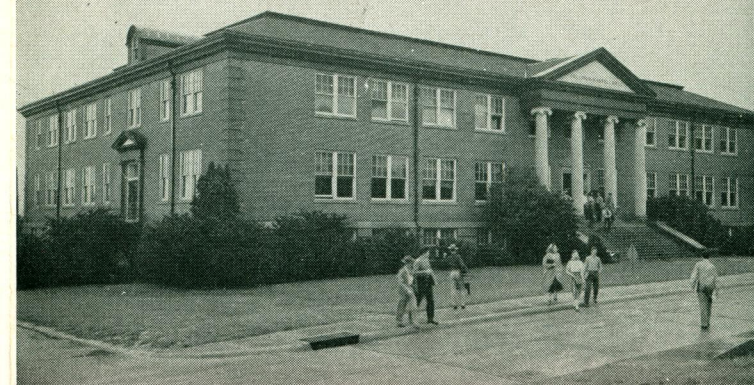

INTRAMURALS. A full program of intramural sports for both men and women is provided each year. This makes it possible for all students to take part in at least one sport.

● ● ● ● Highly Capable and Widely Recognized Faculty

No college is stronger than its faculty. Millsaps considers itself fortunate in the calibre and versatility of its distinguished faculty, for great teachers inspire and enrich the lives of their students.

From the beginning, the Millsaps College faculty has enjoyed considerable prestige. Of the first nine faculty members employed by President Murrah, four had the Doctor of Philosophy degree or were later to get it.

Today, Millsaps boasts a well-trained faculty of over forty-five outstanding teachers, many of whom have gathered high academic honors. The majority have either completed or are now taking graduate study.

Recognition by Standardizing Agencies ● ● ● ●

Millsaps College has been a member of the Southern Association of Colleges since 1912, never on probation, its standing never questioned. The college is also on the fully approved list of the Association of American Universities and the Association of American University Women.

Yes, You Can Expect the Best at Millsaps . . .

From this brief story of Millsaps, we hope you have in some measure learned just why you can expect the best at Millsaps.

No words on paper can properly describe the true spirit of Millsaps College. You feel this spirit when you become a member of the Millsaps family . . . a happy devoted group.

To those students who are earnestly seeking a sound and thorough liberal arts training or who are preparing for the higher professions, Millsaps offers an unsurpassed opportunity for personal advancement.

In helping students prepare themselves in such a way that they can live fuller, richer, more productive lives, Millsaps contributes much to human happiness and success.

By bringing to Millsaps your best, you can indeed expect the best in return. We cordially invite you to come to Millsaps.

HONORING

DR. B. E. MITCHELL

MILLSAPS-WILSON LIBRARY
JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI

FOREWORD

In honoring Dr. B. E. Mitchell this Commencement the college honors itself, not only because of the character and life of the man, but because he has been an integral part of Millsaps College for almost two-thirds of its existence, that is, for thirty-six years. He has attended the dedication exercises of every building now on the campus except Founder's Hall.

Well might he say of these fruitful years, in the words of Tennyson's Ulysses: "I am a part of all I have met."

And he has been a very vital part of it all, both as professor and as dean of the college. His generous spirit, his self-effacing modesty, his courteous bearing, his gentle firmness and unswerving uprightness of life have touched thousands of young lives, and have entered into and become a part of the pattern of life and of the tradition that is Millsaps.

ALFRED P. HAMILTON

PRESIDENT M. L. SMITH

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

I count it an honor as one of your many friends to add my words of appreciation of your long and devoted service to Millsaps College and to the youth of Mississippi.

It must be a source of constant satisfaction to you to have given thirty-six years, the best years of your life, to the building of Millsaps College. This college has never had on its staff a more loyal friend, a more devoted booster, and a more skillful teacher. Perhaps the greatest satisfaction comes to you from the fast friendships which you have formed during these years with such great minds as D. M. Key, "Ducky" Lin, J. M. Sullivan, G. L. Harrell, A. P. Hamilton, and M. C. White, a choice group of good fellows and rare souls. All of these men, I happen to know, have appreciated and admired you during all those years, more than a third of a century, that you have been associated with one another.

During your years at Millsaps College it has grown and become recognized throughout America for its fine quality of educational service. You can take pride in the fact that you have contributed a full man's share both as professor and as dean to the real progress that brought it this recognition.

Let me thank you for these long years of service. The college owes you a great deal and all of us are indebted to you for the greatness of your mind and the gentleness of your fine spirit.

Sincerely your friend,
MARION SMITH

DEAN W. E. RIECKEN

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

I have been associated with you since I came to Millsaps College in 1934. Coming here as a new member of the faculty, I greatly appreciate the friendly way you had of making me feel welcome. I have always admired you for your fine Christian character, your cooperative attitude and your zeal for the philosophy and beauty found in mathematics.

Your optimism and your Christian attitude have been a source of inspiration to me in my every contact with you.

I shall always think of you as a fine friend and a Christian gentleman.

Sincerely,
WM. E. RIECKEN

FORMER PRESIDENT D. M. KEY

When I first went to the little Ozark village of Morrisville, in 1902, Ernest Mitchell was the community's "fair haired boy,"—metaphorically speaking. For his coloration was rich and abundant and his deep brown hair was crisp and curly and his frame vigorous and athletic. Being a "good" boy, even for that pious neighborhood, he was the darling of all the mothers and the heart's desire of all the girls. He was, however, a regular boy, as his nicknames, Briarheel and Broncho, indicated. This attractiveness to all femininity was later to cause him much trouble and embarrassment, but he was always true to his boyhood sweetheart Elizabeth Scott. As it so happened, the woman I was afterwards to marry, Anna Shelton, and I and Ernest and Elizabeth met there at Morrisville and formed a friendship that lasted forty years, a unique intimacy, closer and dearer than any kinship. We always had Christmas and Thanksgiving dinner together, until Elizabeth's death. At that time, Anna and I were privileged to come to B. E. in his echoing home and spend some months with him while he rebuilt his shattered life structure.

When Dr. Mitchell and I were in Vanderbilt, he roomed with me in a little cottage on Blakemore Avenue, just back of the university. When I went to Southern at Greensboro, he married Elizabeth and stayed on as an instructor, working on his doctorate, until old Dr. Vaughan told him: "I have carried you as far as I can on your problem; you had better go to Columbia to complete your thesis." This he did; then went to Millsaps and in 1915 he brought me to Millsaps by recommending me to the then President, Dr. A. F. Watkins. There we spent over thirty years together, built our homes and raised our families. When I became President in 1923, Mitch became my main counselor and advisor. In many ways, his stamp is upon the development of the college in those days.

He is the most unselfish man I have ever known. This quality made him a most unbiased counselor; because his very good and realistic common sense was completely uninfluenced by any personal advantage or consideration. This quality also made him a man of unequivocal courage in maintaining his convictions on any subject.

Dr. Mitchell is a man of great intellectual energy and inquisitiveness. He always has some problem or project on hand in the investigation of which he ranges far and wide. He has done this for years. He did not need the incentive of a Carnegie grant to start him on such a quest. His investigations have to do with mathematics or religion or often both combined. The best chapel address I ever heard was his account of a certain mathematical problem that beset him for years. When the trail grew dim and he was ready to abandon the quest, something providential would occur that set him on the search anew. This providential break occurred in New York, in Blue Ridge, N. C., and finally in Jackson. The final solution came like a clap of thunder, and excited him so that he went off to the Board of Stewards meeting, clapping everybody on the shoulder and behaving something like a mad man.

Many other problems engaged him over the years. He was prominent in the organization of the Southern Mathematical Association and each year carried his favorite math pupils off in his own car to the annual meetings of the Association where they frequently won top honors. He was a stimulating teacher and had his full share of students stimulated to graduate studies. Religion was the other field that he explored, and in these researches delved into the Greek New Testament and the Greek philosophers. At one time, as a lay preacher he was pastor of a suburban church then called the Millsaps Memorial. He labored long and effectively in promoting Bethlehem House, a negro settlement project on Farish Street. As a member of the Kiwanis Club and in many other connections he took an active part in civic movements.

When Elizabeth died, I met many business men down town who inquired about him and the almost universal comment was; "He is a good man." So the circle is complete—from Morrisville to Jackson. He has had a fruitful and satisfying career in a life devoted to Christian Education. If any one else ever, he can repeat my favorite line from Ovid:

Placato possum non miser esse deo.

LETTERS OF APPRECIATION FROM FORMER STUDENTS AND FRIENDS

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

I heartily applaud the plans for the current issue of the Millsaps Bulletin to be issued in your honor. It will be a most deserved tribute. I am happy and honored at the privilege of joining with your host of former students and friends in an expression of appreciation for the fine job you have done at Millsaps for the College and for the young men and women who have been privileged to be associated with you as students and otherwise.

You have given reality to theorems and you have harnessed formulas and made them serviceable. The practical idealism which has exemplified your life has been manifested in the classroom and by your personal enthusiasm, your devotion and your interest in humanity. This influence, all for the good, will continue. This influence will be felt wherever your students are and wherever their influence will reach.

I know that I represent the views of hundreds of your former students, who can truthfully say we have a genuine affection and respectful admiration for you, your work, your life, your devotion and your influence.

I salute you with every good wish for a long and happy life of service.

Sincerely yours,

HUGH CLEGG

Federal Bureau of Investigation

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

It is with genuine pleasure that I bear this testimony of both my personal friendship and that of my family, for in your long and distinguished service at Millsaps College you have taught all my children and they greatly admired you for your sterling Christian character, accurate scholarship, and inspiring instruction. Blessed is he not only knows, but also knows how to teach others!

I venture to speak also as a member of the board of trustees who share with the faculty the responsibility for the character of the work done by the college and its imprint upon the students. In these days of unrest and confusion we are greatly concerned that we shall have a faculty distinguished not only for technical scholarship, but also for unimpeachable Christian integrity and for unquestionable loyalty to the American way of life. We seek to employ only those men and women who will train our students to live in the spirit of the fathers, and so hand on to posterity the unsullied flag of liberty with a vital and vigorous concern for the welfare of all people.

I believe you have nobly met our requirements and loyally discharged your duties as a member of the faculty for these thirty and six years, so that as you come to the time for retirement I am sure that every patron and trustee is ready to join me in saying a hearty "well done" to a good and faithful teacher. We thank you!

Faithfully your friend,
J. R. COUNTISS, Sr.
Board of Trustees

IN APPRECIATION OF A CHRISTIAN TEACHER

For thirty-six years Dr. B. E. Mitchell has been one of the principal contributors to the greatness of Millsaps College. This was due to his scholarship, his teaching ability, his interest in students, his Christianity, and his determination to work and plan so that Millsaps might become great.

He was and is a Christian Scholar and Gentleman with the kind of personality and character that challenges the best from those who know him. Courteous and gallant at all times, he set an example which has influenced hundreds of young men to be finer men. His love for his Church is an inspiration to all of us to do what we can to promote its works.

His scholarship is respected by students, faculty members, and mathematicians in the leading colleges and universities of this section. He was one of the organizers of the Louisiana-Mississippi Section of the Mathematics Association of America to promote teaching and research in Mathematics and presented regularly original papers on some favorite mathematical subject. He was and is still a student. He assisted in the organization of the Louisiana-Mississippi Chapter and the Mississippi Chapter of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics in an attempt to improve the teachers and the teaching of his favorite subject.

His students soon learned that they had brought their vessels to a full well. Those whose vessels were carried away empty or partially filled had only their indifference, indolence, or mental cowardice to blame.

His development and experience of a principle or theorem with which he usually began a class session were beautiful and strong. He was the artist and the scientist. We can give him no credit if scholastic standards have been lowered in our educational institutions. His patience with those interested in learning and who had the courage and determination to learn was limitless. He was truly a great teacher.

Millsaps College owes much to this man for its high rank. Hundreds of men and women throughout this section are making a better world and other hundreds are happier because of these thirty-six years that Dr. Mitchell has lived among us.

DEWEY S. DEARMAN

MILLSAPS-WILSON LIBRARY
JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

It has come to my attention that you are retiring from active faculty at Millsaps College. There must be a deep sense of pride in the completion of such successful career as you have had there. I never see Millsaps or meet former students that you are not mentioned as to your teaching and the influence you had on the character of the students throughout the years.

My only hope is that my two sons will have the type of teachers I had while at Millsaps. It means a great deal for a student to get efficient instruction in the subjects he takes—this we got under your teaching; it means even more to catch a philosophy of life that leads to a career of service from his teachers—this you did abundantly. Thank you for both.

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

It is hard for me to think of Millsaps College without you as an active member of the faculty. You were here when I came and have been all through these thirty-three years. We have been through many trying and happy times together: the very stuff of which life is made. But whether the going was hard or easy I have always known which side you would be on, and where you would cast the weight of your influence. It was always on the side of right and justice, as God gave you to see the right.

I can't remember that I ever heard you express a harsh or unjust criticism of anyone, or that you have ever been ungenerous in your actions toward everyone. This takes character, strong character—and I think I know character when I see it.

It is no little thing when a man can bring to a close his professional career, carrying with him the love and high esteem of all those with whom he has worked, in the class-room, on the faculty, in the church or as a citizen of the community. But all this you can confidently claim, at this time of your retirement.

Sincerely your friend,
ALFRED P. HAMILTON

It was at Epworth-By-The-Sea at Corpus Christi, Texas, that I first crossed the paths with my honored friend and teacher, Dr. Benjamin E. Mitchell, who was then baritone on the famous Vanderbilt male quartet singing for the group gathered there in the summer of 1908.

When he came to Millsaps College, as professor of mathematics, I was a member of the student body in my Junior year, and I recall with keen pleasure the realization that we were to have a man of his ability and character not only in our mathematics department but as Director of our Glee Club at Millsaps. I recall distinctly the quartet which Dr. Mitchell organized with John Carr as tenor, Dr. Oscar Conner as second tenor, Dr. Mitchell, himself, in the baritone role, and myself as bass; and the keen enjoyment I derived from singing in this quartet and in the Glee Club under his able leadership. The years have passed and I, myself, am in my 26th season as Director of the George Washington University Glee Club and in my 5th year as Director of the singing Capital Chorus of 150 male voices in Washington, D. C. I wish to pay tribute to the man who gave me my first real instruction in musical leadership. There is so much I might say of Dr. Mitchell from the musical side, but I do not want to forget his able teaching in his chosen field of mathematics, his patience and above all his wonderful personality that will always represent Dr. Mitchell to me.

May his years to come be happy and fruitful ones and my hearty and sincere thanks and appreciation from a personal angle for all that he has meant to me.

ROBERT H. HARMON, M. D.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

Having learned that you are retiring from active teaching at the approaching commencement, I have decided after careful analysis to write another—a follow-up letter—welcoming you into this new relationship with each other and to the college.

That first letter—from stranger to stranger—was the introduction to a friendship that is firm and lasting.

When I look back through these three dozen years, I find no one who excels you in loyalty to an interest in the advancement and maintainance of the ideals of the college.

While it might enumerate many activities outside of your own field in which you have given yourself to the college, I will name only one wherein I feel that you are entitled to be called the "Father of Fine Arts at Millsaps".

In your "chair" by the side of the desk you have watched the stream of youth go by and into that stream, with unfailing design, you have cast yourself and influence to make their thinking and logic more clear. Flow on great tide!

Now from that ocean of relaxation and peace — Emeritus Relationship—here is wishing you continued enjoyment in the years to come when you can move—not at the ringing of a bell—but as you desire.

I wish that I had the gift of tongue or pen as you that I might put these words into as beautiful form as you did for me just two years ago.

That characteristic—with me—being among the infinitesimals, I shall have to console myself with Q. E. D.

Faithfully,

G. L. HARRELL

Professor Emeritus

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

Millsaps is justly proud of having had the services for thirty-six years of such an inspiring teacher and fine Christian gentleman as Dr. Benjamin Ernest Mitchell. Dr. Mitchell is a teacher and a mathematician. He is a teacher because he teaches students as well as mathematics. His deep interest in his individual students is indicated by a comment he made recently that he had a wonderful class in analytic geometry—a class of interested, hard-working, excellent boys and girls.

Many people think that a mathematician is one who works with x 's and y 's by employing the techniques completely established hundreds of years ago—in short, one who works in a dead field. I am sure no student of Dr. Mitchell has such an opinion. It is impossible to be in his class and to receive through his enthusiasm and interest in his subject the attitude that mathematics is dead. He has also continually helped to demonstrate that mathematics is alive by presenting many research papers in mathematics and by participating in professional organizations.

His many activities in the church, in music and in other fields show a breadth of interest far beyond that of just a mathematician. His ability as a teacher, I believe, cannot be better demonstrated than by pointing out that many of his students have gone on to attain advanced degrees in mathematics. While I was a student majoring in mathematics, his approach to the subject had a profound influence on my choosing mathematics for my own life work. I am deeply appreciative of the great privilege of having been one of Dr. Mitchell's students and of having received the benefits of his philosophy as well as of his knowledge. The sincere, vital attitude of always teaching a person as well as a subject has influenced me so that in my own work I try to live up to the ideals that he has set.

I know Dr. Mitchell will feel a great loss in retiring from his work at Millsaps, but I am also sure that the students of Millsaps will experience an even greater loss.

Recently I asked Dr. Mitchell, "How do you find time to do the research you wish to do while doing full-time teaching?" He replied, "I don't find time to do all the research I want to do, I'll have to wait until I retire." I know that Dr. Mitchell in his retirement will solve some of those problems he has not had time to do before.

GEORGE REVES

Professor of Mathematics

The Citadel

As a student of Dr. B. E. Mitchell at Millsaps College, I would like to express for myself, and I am sure for countless others, appreciation for his sterling qualities as a sound scholar, an inspiring teacher and a true gentleman. As a mathematician, Dr. Mitchell had an inquisitive mind, a zest for scholarly research and an unusual ability to inspire these qualities in others. His success along these lines is attested to by his own published research and by the many university professors, college teachers and high school teachers that received their basic training under him at Millsaps. A measure of his true worth is the fact that in addition to being head of the Mathematics Department, he was also Dean of Men as well as being active in the religious, social and civic affairs of his community. The sound training in Mathematics a student receives at Millsaps stands the rigorous test of graduate work in institutions of higher learning anywhere in the United States and a large part of the credit is due him for his guidance during the last few decades.

AN APPRECIATION

When, in 1914, there occurred a vacancy in the Professorship of Mathematics at Millsaps College, the selection of a new head for the department resulted in the choice of a well recommended young man who held the A. B. degree from Morrisville-Scarritt College, the A. M. degree from Vanderbilt University and Ph.D. from Columbia University. Very soon after the arrival of Dr. Benjamin Ernest Mitchell, with his estimable wife and lively little daughter, it became evident that this family was to become a definite asset to the Millsaps College community and our state, and that the department of Mathematics would continue to maintain a superior degree of efficiency.

Now, after thirty-six years of most delightful and helpful acquaintance, this writer, in response to the request of President M. L. Smith and Dr. A. P. Hamilton, joins with others in public expression of appreciation of Dr. Benjamin Ernest Mitchell and his tireless and efficient service to Millsaps College up to the very eve of the 1950 Commencement, when he will retire from active teaching at Millsaps and assume the honorable position of Emeritus Professor of Mathematics.

During these active years of teaching, Dr. Mitchell, through his own profound knowledge in the field of mathematics and enthusiastic devotion to the subject, as well as through his happy faculty of presenting great facts in a clear and challenging manner, led the minds of the young men and women of his classes to an understanding appreciation of the scope and indispensable service of Mathematics through its figures, functions, lines and curves coordinated in the unlimited range of the physical world and universe. He has done much research himself, and his zeal has inspired interest in others associated with him, which has also been demonstrated in his public addresses dealing with special mathematical problems and procedure. Dr. Mitchell has served for twenty-six years as an active member of the Louisiana-Mississippi Section of the Mathematics Association of America, serving as Chairman of the Section in 1928.

It is not merely in the field of his scholastic specialization that Dr. B. E. Mitchell has made himself an asset to Millsaps College, but in the college community and beyond he has projected his genial disposition and forceful talents into other areas of usefulness.

Soon after coming to Millsaps he organized, and directed the men's glee club from 1914 to 1917. Later, from 1924-1928, he organized, and directed the women's glee club. He directed the Capitol Street Methodist choir during the years 1921-1923. His vocal talent brought him from time to time into participation in the music of the city, and during the years 1923-1927 he was assistant director of the Jackson Municipal Chorus. Dr. Mitchell was for many years a regular member of the choir of Galloway Memorial church, and at intervals served most acceptably as associate teacher of the Men's Bible Class of the same church.

Because of Dr. Mitchell's desire to make his life a forceful agent for spiritual good, as well as for intellectual service, he applied to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1923 for official relation as a local preacher, which was promptly granted, and in 1928 he was ordained Local Deacon. In this capacity he has from time to time rendered valuable service.

As a man, Dr. Mitchell is unassuming in manner, pleasingly cordial in approach, with a friendliness that opens a welcome door to genuine fellowship. At Millsaps College he has been as appreciated friend of faculty members and students who wish him great happiness through years of continued activity. He has shown fondness for clean sports and to him a good joke is refreshing. During his connection with Millsaps one of the chief sources of his entertainment has been in the Carnegie-Millsaps Library for general and research reading.

Dr. B. E. Mitchell—my friend—has meant more to my own life than the mere casual acquaintance of a colleague for a quadrennium or more. He has projected encircling and penetrating influences that are more than molecular or atomic, and are not coordinated with definite scholastic cycles of the calendar; such influences involve the soul, the spirit of the man, his philosophy of life, and his faith in great foundations. Dr. Mitchell sees in Mathematics, as well as in all the natural and physical sciences, facts that emphasize the harmonies between science and religion. He recognizes and appreciates the perfection of the structure of the physical universe and application of developed formulae that sustain and verify far-reaching observations. To him, as to a multitude of others, the facts of the pure and applied sciences become part of the revelation of the wonderful works of God.

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

In August, 1922, you and Dr. D. M. Key, both strangers to me at that time, talked to me about enrolling at Millsaps College. It was four years after graduation from high school. I had just about become reconciled to the disappointment of not being able to attend college; an ambition carried through four years of high school and the subsequent four years of employment.

Your story re-awakened this smouldering ambition. In September I managed to enter Millsaps with only twenty dollars to my name. Graduation came four years later. The decision was never regretted.

This testimony is one of many which could be repeated by others who have had the privilege of crossing your path. Therefore, news of your retirement as an active member of the Millsaps faculty causes mixed emotions in my heart, as well as in the hearts of hundreds of others.

My first reaction is one of thankfulness, that through God's grace you have been spared for so many useful years. Your gifts as a teacher and your exemplary character as a Christian gentleman have been an inspiration to many boys and girls of Mississippi, who through your training and example have learned to establish themselves as citizens of integrity. Your consciousness of this fact should be a source of great consolation to you.

Also, your retirement stirs another emotion within us; one of regret. We so not begrudge you a well-earned rest and an opportunity to enjoy your remaining years as you see fit, without daily responsibilities. You are entitled to that. We would be inexcusably selfish to do this. Our disappointment comes from the knowledge that our own children will not be blessed with the same happy experience enjoyed by their parents.

Best of luck to you, sir, and may our Lord bestow His richest blessings upon you.

Sincerely,
M. B. SWAYZE
General Manager
Miss. Economic Council

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

As the time of your retirement from Millsaps College approaches, your friends are moved to tell you of their love, and of their regret at the severing of the bonds of active companionship within the teaching faculty.

Your career in our college has been a long and useful one, in the course of which you have earned the gratitude and affectionate regard of many hundreds of students. As a teacher they honor you, and as a man and a Christian they revere and love you.

We, your long-time friends in the faculty, shall cherish the memory of happy hours in your home and in the bosom of your family. We want you still as our friend and companion, to help us and to be helped as life's changes may require.

May long life and happiness and health be yours, with the blessing of God now and always.

Cordially your friend,

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Alpha Phi Omega was chartered at Millsaps College in 1950 after its charter members had worked diligently to prove that they were willing to do service to the campus and community. In the future, when Alpha Phi Omega is well on its feet, we hope to be one of the prominent service organizations in the city of Jackson and Millsaps campus.

The purpose of the fraternity, as set forth in the National Constitution, is 'to assemble college men in the fellowship of the Scout Oath and Law, to develop friendship and promote service to humanity.' Its major fields of service are: to the student body and faculty, to youth and community, to members of the fraternity, and to the nation as participating citizens.

OLD MAIN BUILDING

WEBSTER SCIENCE HALL

Millsaps and Jackson Grow Together From "Whistle Stops" 50 Years Ago To Progressive Centers of Today

The $600,000 building project now underway on the Millsaps Campus in this year 1950 invites a look backward a half-century to the Millsaps that was then part of a Jackson that thrived on such businesses as "Brown Bros. — Vehicles, Buggies and Surreys," and the then novel "Kodaks" at Eyrich and Co.

Millsaps had enjoyed a ten year history at the turn of the century. Grover Cleveland had been inaugurated President in an era of great economic distress particularly marked in the South owing to the great fluctuation in the price of cotton after the Civil War.

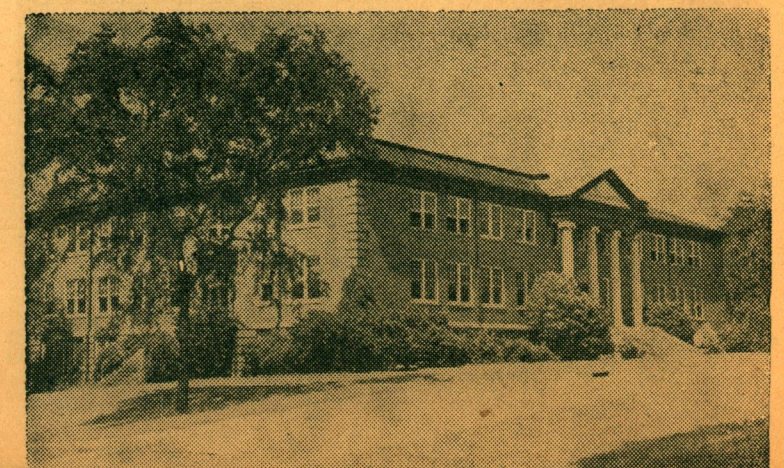

The College had been founded upon a pledge by Major then. Millsaps was a mile's buggy ride through fields filled with cotton or the rattling stalks of past cotton crops.

Jackson and Millsaps have grown at a constantly accelerating rate: Millsaps from these four buildings to the twenty-three it now has built or building. Drivers on North State Street today see the rising foundations of the New Dormitory for Women shown lower right. Those on North West find new beauty in the broad approaches and composed beauty of the nearly completed Christian Center. Building is going on, in fact, on each of the four campus corners. At the southeast, the Lambda Chi Alpha Frater-

MURRAH HALL

FORMER PRESIDENTS' HOME

Dr. W. B. Murrah to make a grant of $50,000 for the founding of a Methodist College provided an equal grant could be raised among the Mississippi congregation. The money for the institution was raised, and by 1900, the institution pictured on this page had made its appearance. The plans are those of Hunt and Lamb of Chattanooga, the land a plot made available by Major Millsaps. Dr. W. B. Murrah was the first President of the School, and was such in 1900.

The buildings of the College at that time were (above, left to right) the Administration Building, the President's Home, the Science Hall, and the Library. Building costs at the time, unbelievable in 1950, placed a twelve-thousand valuation on the largest of the structures—then the Administration Building.

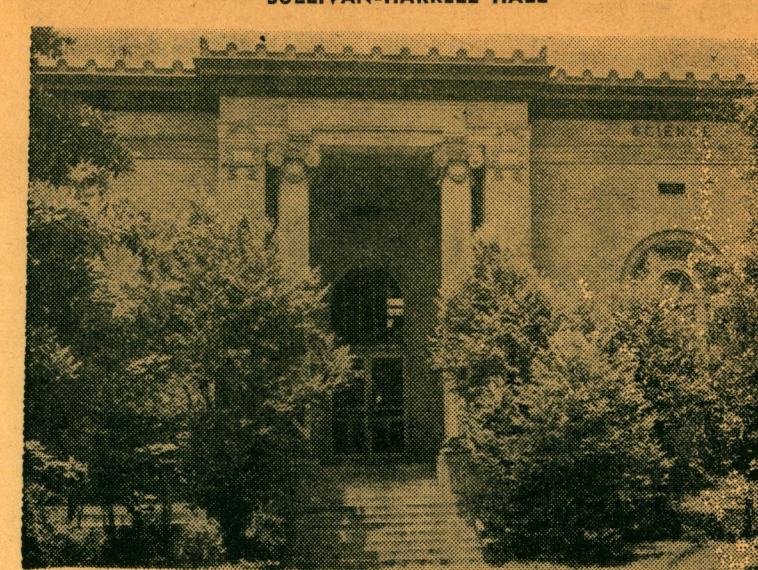

To the left of the President's Home and in the background can be seen Founder's Hall, the oldest structure on the Campus. It was purchased intact from the old Jackson College.

In 1900, Jackson was a town of 7,816 persons, and cotton farming was the occupation most Jacksonians followed years, had housed the trailer village. President Smith's new home and the standard-road-size highway leading through the campus were completed a few months ago.

The addition of these new facilities gives the student body, limited to 800, a complete physical plant for pre-professional and liberal arts training, and was among the factors considered by Good Housekeeping magazine when the editors selected Millsaps as one of the finest small colleges in the nation.

As Jackson has grown to become one of the South's great cities, and as its economy has turned to a balanced occupation with industry, commerce, and agriculture, Millsaps has kept step. The great new campus which is emerging from the old is a symbol of the times—and an example in the community of interest which exists between "town and gown." As a cultural center radiating its influence throughout the state, Millsaps has provided preparation for its alumni in the problems of a newer day and generation.

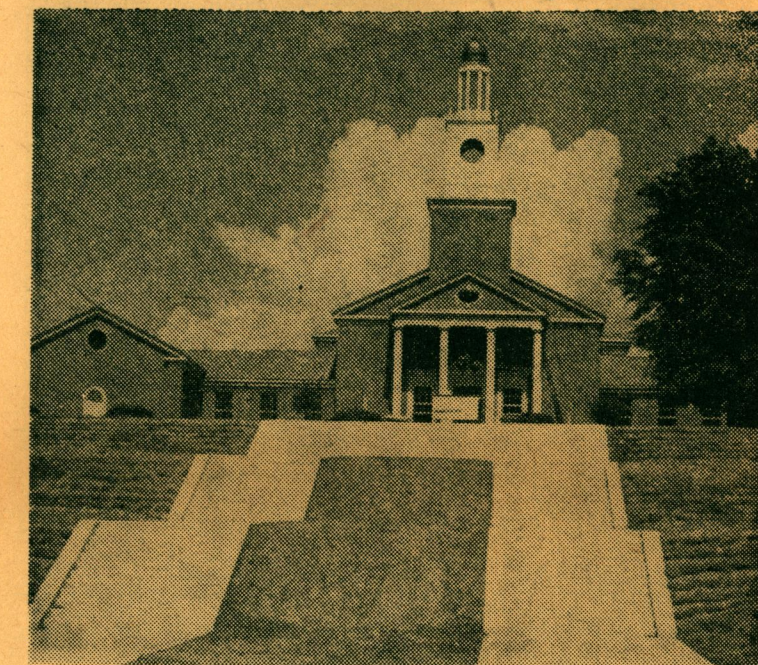

CARNEGIE MILLSAPS LIBRARY

JAMES OBSERVATORY

A HAIF CENTURY of progress on Millsaps campus is seen in these pictures made then and now. At top is an overall view of the campus and all buildings in 1900. At left, reading down is old Main Building housing president's office, chapel, chemistry lab, prep school, mathematics department, English, language and history departments and two literary societies. Next is Webster Science Hall housing the science department and ancient languages. The former home of the president has now been remodeled to house four faculty apartments. It has been replaced by a colonial brick structure. The observatory though this is an old view, remains, with alterations, as one of the few old buildings. At the bottom is an interior view of the library when it was located in Main Building. At that time it contained about 500 volumes

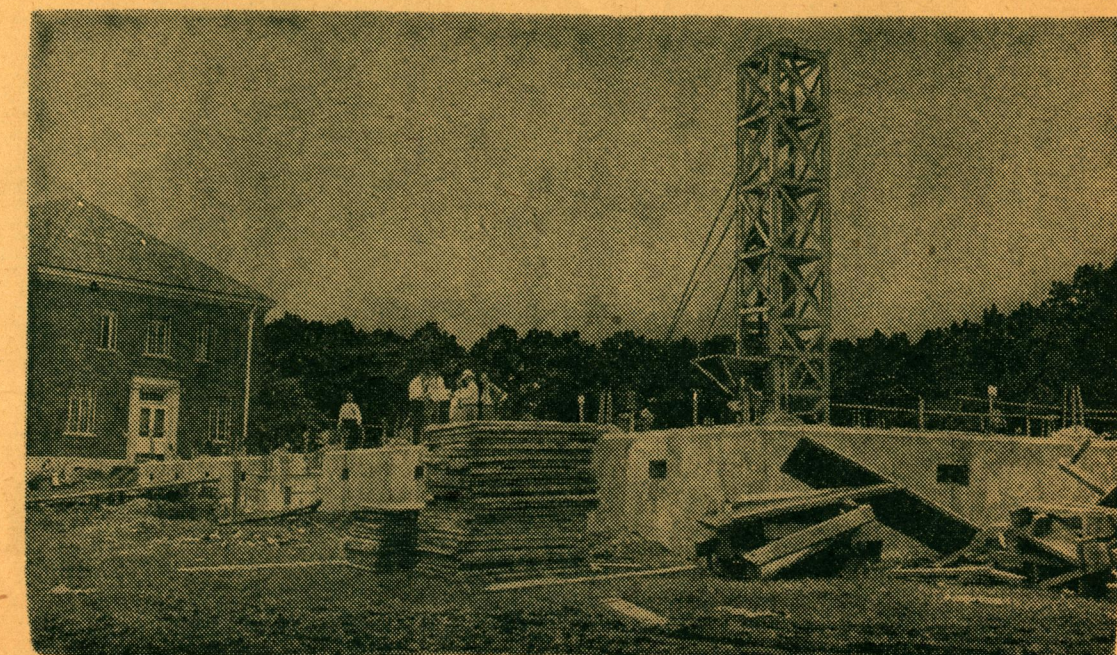

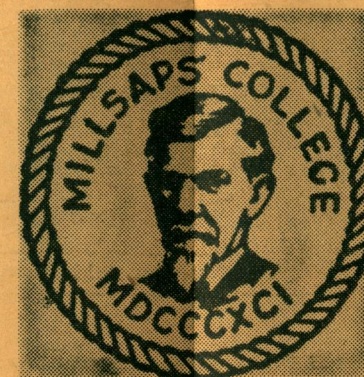

Reading down on the right, Murrah Hall has replaced Main Building and houses English, languages and social studies, administrative offices and the old auditorium. Sullivan-Harrell Hall is the science hall containing chemistry, physics and biology departments. It is more than twice as large as Webster was. The Carnegie-Millsaps Library, third down, contains 30,000 volumes, an increase of 29,500 over 1900. The new Christian Center, now nearing completion, will house Jackson's second largest auditorium and stage, the department of religion, a memorial library, student publications, a small chapel, and a pipe and electric organ. At bottom right can be seen construction on the new girl's dormitory to house 56 girls. This will be joined to Whithworth Hall on completion. At bottom center is the college seal

November, 1950

Published monthly during the college year by Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss., at Room 13, Murrah Hall. Entered as a second class matter November 21, 1916 at the Post Office at Jackson, Miss., under the act of Congress of August 24, 1912.

What Makes a College Great?

Is it ivy facades and a green velvet campus? Is it a football team? Is it marble halls and the portraits of benefactors peering down upon the student body?

Or is it the more enduring stuff of the teacher's mark upon an inquiring mind—the knowledge, the enthusiasm, the humanity that enters the very marrow of the student and enriches him and all he touches?

In terms of physical assets, Millsaps College is small. In terms of human assets, it has no equal in the field of higher liberal arts education.

Part of the story of those human assets is told in the following pages. It is told only as effectively as the perceptive eye of the camera and the coldly objective use of words permit. But the other part of the story is told in the classrooms. For there the experience and true character of these men and women are translated into inspiring study.

In the scholarship of these men and women—in their search for truth—in the impact of their teaching upon the students—lie the distinction and the real greatness of Millsaps College.

A GOOD COLLEGE in a GOOD CITY

Jackson offers many Opportunities to the Student

Among Millsaps' many advantages is the fact that it is located in Jackson, Mississippi's largest city and capital of the state.

The intellectual and personal development of the student may be greatly influenced by the community in which he lives. Jackson, a city of both opportunity and culture, offers many advantages to students residing within the city.

Many special events, such as athletic contests, lectures, plays, concerts and other musical performances, go far toward broadening and enriching the student's life in Jackson.

Here, also, he can visit and take part in the services of Jackson's outstanding churches. Friendships can be built that will last through the years.

Of practical importance to many students is the fact that Jackson offers unrivalled opportunities to those who seek part-time employment.

A good college, plus a good city, makes a perfect combination for students at Millsaps to grow scholastically, socially and culturally.

COSTS are REASONABLE

In conformity with its charter, Millsaps has always maintained a policy of keeping costs of education as low as is consistent with effective work and with income from church contributions and endowment.

Students living in college dormitories and eating at the college cafeteria can attend Millsaps for one year for $566.00 (exclusive of laboratory fees and books).

Students living at home in Jackson can attend Millsaps for one year for $260.00 (exclusive of laboratory fees and books).

Annual HIGH SCHOOL DAY

Each spring, the first Saturday in April, Millsaps College is host to the high school seniors of the state at its annual High School Day. The program includes a tour of the campus, a barbecue dinner, entertainment and competitive tests for a number of scholarship awards.

On the basis of these tests, about 15 high school students are awarded scholarships to Millsaps every year.

High School Day gives you an idea of what you can expect at Millsaps. You will meet many of the teachers and students you will be associated with in the year to come. You are cordially invited!

REGISTER EARLY

When you register early, the college is better able to make its plans to fit your individual needs. Both you and the college will find it advantageous for you to make an early decision to enter here.

PLANNING YOUR COLLEGE FUTURE

Here is the story of Millsaps College. It gives you some idea of what you can expect at Millsaps.

To those of you who are planning to continue your education, we urge you to find out more about Millsaps College.

The years you spend on a college campus can be among the most rewarding and significant in your whole life. They can shape and pattern your future as almost no other period of time can.

For this reason, the proper selection of your college becomes doubly important.

We believe that Millsaps College offers much to its undergraduates. We would like to share these advantages and opportunities with you.

By letting us know you better, we can perhaps help in the planning of your college future.

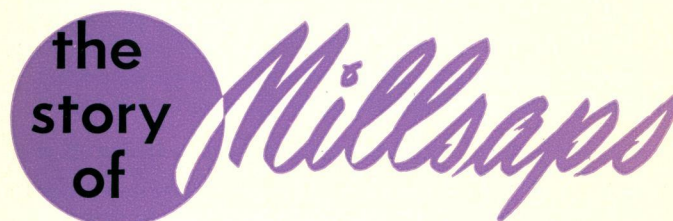

Sincerely,

M. L. Smith

President

CHRISTIAN CENTER BUILDING, STUDENT ACTIVITIES AND CLASSROOMS

Founded just over fifty-eight years ago, Millsaps is one of the youngest colleges supported by the Methodist Church. It was in the late eighties that the Mississippi Methodist Conferences appointed a joint commission to formulate plans for a "college for males under the auspices and control of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South."

Among the members of this commission was Major R. W. Millsaps, Jackson businessman and banker, who offered to give $50,000 to endow the institution, provided Methodists throughout the state matched this amount.

Under the leadership of Bishop Charles B. Galloway, the Methodists met the challenge of Major Millsaps. The Charter for the college was granted February 21, 1890, and the college opened its doors in the fall of 1892.

First president of the college was William Belton Murrah. Along with Bishop Galloway and Major Millsaps, Murrah is commonly thought of as one of the founders of the college.

Throughout its more than fifty-eight years Millsaps has progressed steadily in educational facilities and maintained a high standing as an institution of learning in Mississippi and the South.

what Millsaps offers today

Now in its fifty-ninth year, Millsaps has always ranked high among liberal arts colleges in this part of the South.

Today enrollment at Millsaps is about 800. Facilities are being constantly expanded in an effort to offer greater and more useful educational opportunities to its students.

Because of a deep-rooted tradition of scholarship at Millsaps, graduates of the college are equipped with specialized and technical training built upon a sound cultural foundation.

In addition to granting bachelor of science and bachelor of arts degrees in many specialized fields, Millsaps offers the highest calibre pre-professional training in law, medicine, and religion.

Beginning with the 1948-1949 session, a far-reaching cooperative program was inaugurated between Millsaps College and Belhaven College. Exchange of students between the two colleges provides a wider range of departmental and course offerings for both student bodies.

There is also a sharing of the physical and other facilities of the two schools.

Educational Opportunity

Men and Women

A Personal Interest in Each Student

Millsaps is noted for its friendly and congenial campus life. Here students not only get to know each other well but they also become more than ordinarily close to their professors.

As a student at Millsaps you will not become lost in the crowd. You soon come to feel that you are a real part of a warm and friendly college family. The president, faculty and student body will do everything they can to make you feel at home at Millsaps. A personal interest is taken in every student.

This sort of friendship and cordiality enriches the lives of all students and promotes wholesome personality and character growth.

You will quickly make new friends among the students and faculty and they will eagerly share your joys and responsibilities here at Millsaps where your achievement and efforts will be recognized.

Scholarship Counts at Millsaps College

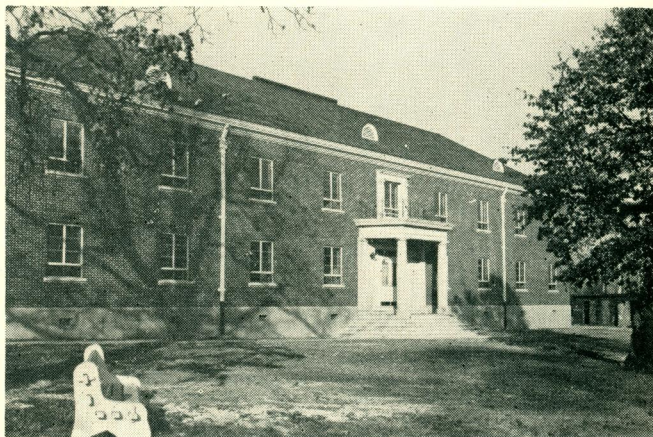

During all the years of its existence, Millsaps College has stressed the importance of sound scholarship.

In establishing Millsaps, William Belton Murrah, the first president, secured the best trained men available, formulated a course of study in what were the fundamentals of a liberal education, and instituted a regimen of intellectual activity that was challenging to faculty and students alike.

This emphasis upon scholarship has been maintained through the years.

Back in the mid-twenties when intelligence tests were first given to freshman students, the president made this forthright announcement to the student body: "We are trying to make our requirements such that no boy with mediocre ability combined with mediocre industry, can ever wear the Millsaps degree."

As a result of its scholarship standards, Millsaps has always enjoyed the highest of ratings among American colleges and universities. Its standing has never been questioned.

Many campus activities give every student an opportunity for diversion and expression. At Millsaps you get a wide range of activities outside the classroom.

CLUBS. There are many organizations which foster the further extension of students' interests in pre-professional and other fields. Among these are the Pre-Medical Club, the Pre-Law Club, the Economics Club, the Education Club, the Science Club, the Classical Club, the International Relations Club, and Eta Sigma, Scholastic Honor Society.

WRITING. Millsaps students interested in writing receive valuable training by working on the staff of the "Purple and White", the college weekly newspaper, and by enrolling in the journalism course which is designed to instruct students in all types of newspaper writing.

DRAMATICS. The "Millsaps Players" is one of the most active groups on the campus. Under the leadership of members of the faculty, they present each session a number of interesting plays and programs.

DEBATING. Since the organization of the college, debating has held a high place at Millsaps. The college has established a remarkable record in Tournament competition with leading southern colleges both in debate and oratory. Many students seek membership in Pi Kappa Delta, National Honor Debate Fraternity.

MILLSAPS SINGERS. The name and traditions of Millsaps have been spread throughout this section and into other states through concert tours of the Millsaps Singers. Membership in this organization is considered one of the greatest honors and privileges which can come to a student.

MILLSAPS SYMPHONY BAND. Members of this fine organization present concerts on the campus and on tour, participate in local parades and play for colorful athletic contests.

OTHER ACTIVITIES offered to students include the Beethoven Club, the Bobashela (Campus Yearbook), the Jackson Symphony Orchestra and the Jackson Little Theatre.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Founded by the Methodist Church, Millsaps College has always emphasized the importance of religious education. Students are urged to attend church and Sunday School of their own denomination. Regular chapel services are held for worship and information.

The various religious activities and organizations of the college are all represented on the Millsaps Christian Council.

The College Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. try to strengthen the spiritual life and influence of the college and their members. They provide a wholesome expression for the religious interests of both men and women students.

The Ministerial League is composed of those students who are preparing for the Christian Ministry. Its members take part in various religious activities both on the campus and in local churches.

One of the most important new buildings on the campus is the Memorial Christian Center Building.

Believing that a well planned sports program promotes health and sportsmanship, Millsaps has determined to bring such advantages to the entire student body. A balanced schedule of intramural sports is carried out on the campus, and an opportunity for intercollegiate competition is afforded through several sports. Trained faculty members direct sports activities for both young men and young women.

Millsaps now offers a complete and adequate physical education program which occupies an important position in the curriculum and takes its rightful place in the field of scholastic endeavor.

FOOTBALL. Millsaps College football teams have built a fine record for teamwork and sportsmanship. Both home and out-of-town games are scheduled each season.

BASKETBALL. Basketball teams at Millsaps have been consistently outstanding, both in tournament play and in regularly scheduled games.

BASEBALL. Those interested in baseball have an opportunity of earning a place on the college team.

TENNIS. Millsaps now has five fine tennis courts for use of the students and members of the tennis team.

GOLF. The nine hole golf course located on the campus offers pleasant recreation for those students who are interested in such sports activities.

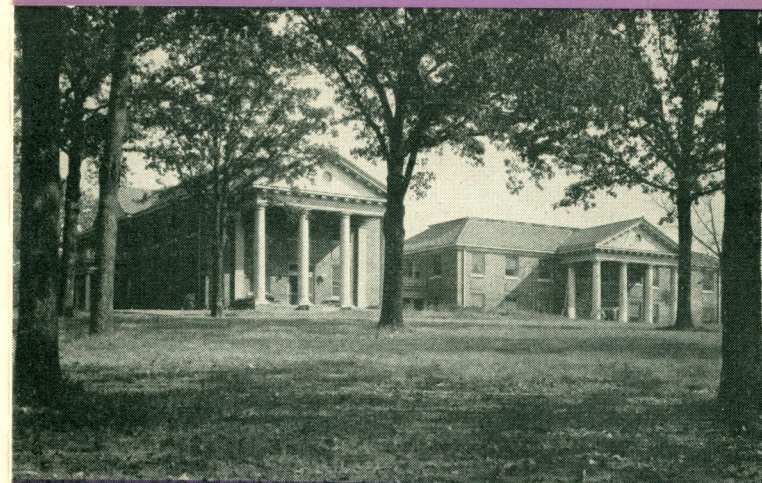

INTRAMURALS. A full program of intramural sports for both men and women is provided each year. This makes it possible for all students to take part in at least one sport.

Highly Capable and Widely Recognized Faculty

No college is stronger than its faculty. Millsaps considers itself fortunate in the calibre and versatility of its distinguished faculty, for great teachers inspire and enrich the lives of their students.

From the beginning, the Millsaps College faculty has enjoyed considerable prestige. Of the first nine faculty members employed by President Murrah, four had the Doctor of Philosophy degree or were later to get it.

Today, Millsaps boasts a well-trained faculty of over forty-five outstanding teachers, many of whom have gathered high academic honors. The majority have either completed or are now taking graduate study.

Recognition by Standardizing Agencies

Millsaps College has been a member of the Southern Association of Colleges since 1912, never on probation, its standing never questioned. The college is also on the fully approved list of the Association of American Universities and the Association of American University Women.

Yes, You Can Expect the Best at Millsaps . . .

From this brief story of Millsaps, we hope you have in some measure learned just why you can expect the best at Millsaps.

No words on paper can properly describe the true spirit of Millsaps College. You feel this spirit when you become a member of the Millsaps family . . . a happy devoted group.

To those students who are earnestly seeking a sound and thorough liberal arts training or who are preparing for the higher professions, Millsaps offers an unsurpassed opportunity for personal advancement.

In helping students prepare themselves in such a way that they can live fuller, richer, more productive lives, Millsaps contributes much to human happiness and success.

By bringing to Millsaps your best, you can indeed expect the best in return. We cordially invite you to come to Millsaps.
